AMAL Clooney is treating husband George to the ultimate boy toy for his birthday – a Porsche 911 GT3 RS.

The actor, who turns 54 on Wednesday, recently took a test drive in the £135,000 car, which is the latest model off the production line.

And lawyer Amal has reportedly arranged to buy George one of the first available in the US to replace the star's Porsche 911.

The four-litre, 200mph motor will share a garage with his prized 1959 red and white Chevrolet Corvette.

A family source said:

“George loves his cars. They have to be stylish and fast, and he always has two.”

They added: “Amal has been looking for the right car for him to replace his black Porsche 911 and the new one is much faster.

“He’s already test-driven it for his birthday present.”

The source said Amal, 37, is also getting George a smoothie maker – “a big one apparently because he’s obsessed with his smoothies of all descriptions”.

They added: “George has had health issues, a lot of ops on his neck, and he finds the smoothies soothing.”

And they joked: “That’s in between the Casamigos Tequilas. Funnily, he finds fast cars soothing, too”.
